Motivation:

I work at the European Commission on entrepreneurial learning and women entrepreneurship. I organize workshops using the innovative methods of participatory leadership and I have started my practice as coach, helping people step into their power by discovering their strengths, resources and gifts.

In my two-year mandate on the APEEE Board, I have used my coaching, facilitation and mediation competences to organize and facilitate public 'town hall' meetings between parents and the school management, as well as team buildings and workshops intended to co-create the strategy and prioritize the actions of the APEEE. I have also supported the school community in moments of crisis, such as the 2019 massive firing of LRTs. Most recently, I have contributed to initiate two Working Groups, on well-being & mental health, and gender, respectively. If I am re-elected, I plan to continue my passionate endeavor of accompanying the school community, and especially children, on the journey of self-learning, personal growth and improved performance.

My motto is: "Change the way you look at things, and the things you look at change!" (Wayne Dyer)
