Update on COVID cases

No new case last week either.

It has been two weeks without any new case. Things seem to be under control before the summer holidays.

Thank you from parents to the school

Karim Kettani wishes to thank the nurses who have been on the front line all year long.

Peter Segers states that we don't know what will happen after the holidays but he reminds the parents that all of us still need to be vigilant during the summer holidays and keep up with the measures.

Vaccination for all is also very important.

Gilberto Castorini hopes that in September, school will be back in situ. He also reiterates the fact that everyone needs to be careful during the summer holidays in order to have a successful back to school.

Ambar Liétar explains that it would be nice to continue having the meetings back in September.

Stephanie Buus states that this is an excellent forum to have each week. It would be nice if it could continue back in September.

Nurses explain that it is quite difficult on Monday mornings at 9 o'clock. Maybe the meetings in September could be held every two weeks in the beginning?

Unless there are special requests of course, but otherwise communication of COVID-cases could be done by email.

Manuel Bordoy: there will be an evaluation at the beginning of the school year if this meeting needs to continue.

Last week of August or first week of September, he will try to call a meeting.

Manuel Bordoy speaks for everyone when he says that we have all appreciated the cooperation with each other.

It proves that there can be a partnership between the school and the parents. We could try to see each other more with the new on-line meeting technology.

We could have thematic meetings once a month on whatever subject that needs to be addressed.

Dina Dragomirescu: thank you to everyone.

Parents cherish these meetings as they get confidence to send their child to school as they were receiving weekly summaries. Not all schools have had such meetings.

Peter Segers wants to thank the prevention officer from the school who made sure the school was safer for all students.

Diane Werhert wants to personally thank Laure Nossent as well for the great work that she has done as she has been taking the minutes from the school's side.

Have a great and restful summer!
